

Hospice Care and Coordination in the Facility: 101

When a facility patient/resident elects hospice care, it is important for both providers to recognize each other's knowledge and remain open to two-way learning. Combined expertise allows the nursing facility and hospice to deliver the most comprehensive care possible. A review of the principles of death and dying and the philosophy of hospice care will assist facility staff in partnering with hospice caregivers in providing comfort care consistent with end of life goals.
